

Policy Statement

Description and Procedures

- A. Consulting with External Subject Matter Experts
- B. Communicating Student Research Concerns
- C. Resolving Disputes between a Faculty Investigator and an IRB Representative
- D. Reporting Non-Compliance

Effective Date

Revision History

During the process of initial, continuing review, or amendment of an activity, material provided to the IRB and Office of Research and Sponsored Projects Operations shall be considered privileged information.

The IRB assures the confidentiality of the confidential information provided to it. IRB - 2(1)(es)-9(M)(al)5-1 coaneg be1(p-5(ivhin)5(s)-6d)-20(m

Members to assist in developing human subjects protection education. If the issue regards academic integrity, UIW policy for academic integrity will prevail. If the issue remains unresolved, additional assistance may be sought.

If a conflict arises between an IRB representative and a faculty investigator, the IRB representative will notify the IRB Chair, and the dispute will be arbitrated by the IRB Chair and Associate Provost for Research and Graduate Education. If the conflict remains unresolved, additional arbitration may be sought.

As a regulatory body operating under federal guidelines, the IRB is required to report non-compliance on the part of any researcher to: the supervising faculty (in the case of student non-compliance); university officials, to include academic dean or provost; federal regulatory bodies; any associated funding agencies; and any sites where research is conducted.

August 24, 2020